The killer ape theory or killer ape hypothesis is the theory that war and interpersonal aggression was the driving force behind human evolution.It was originated by Raymond Dart in the 1950s; it was developed further in African Genesis by Robert Ardrey in 1961.. According to the theory, the ancestors of humans were distinguished from other primate species by their greater aggressiveness, and ...

Killer ape theory - Wikipedia

Apes (Hominoidea) are a branch of Old World monkeys. Apes emerged within “monkeys” as sister of the Cercopithecidae in the Catarrhini, so cladistically they are monkeys as well. There has been resistance to directly designate apes (and thus humans) as monkeys, so “Old World monkey” may be taken to mean the Cercopithecoidea or the Catarrhini.
